

Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching (QILT)

Towards the end of 2015, the federal government launched the Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching (QILT) website. The aim of this website is to assist students in making informed choices about their higher education options by bringing together survey data from all Australian universities, allowing students to compare student experience and job outcomes. So, students are able to compare the student experience, whether domestic or international, between universities, and also learn more about employment outcomes of the different institutions.

Students surveyed were asked a range of questions, such as –

- are they satisfied with the teaching they have received in their course;
- were they engaged with their institution (i.e. through face to face discussions, did they have a sense of belonging at their institution);
- were they satisfied with the learning resources provided by their institution;
- were they satisfied with the support they received at their institution (e.g. easy access to the enrolment systems, learning advice and were health services available and helpful); and
- had they developed skills through their studies

Data was also collected to identify how many students gained full-time employment four months after completing their course, and what the median salary was for those graduates in full-time employment.

This website is really user-friendly and well worth browsing - QILT
